Dear Mr. Bacon:

As I said in my February, 1982, letter to you: I received your documents "on the Bay of Pigs" which contained 10 documents I was interested in. My request for the rest of the documents (approximately 90) originally submitted on February 24, 1981 (modified of course by all communications which followed) still stands.

In my last letter I asked some relevant questions on 1. my area of inquiry, 2. fees, 3. classification and "sanitizing." Could you respond?

I also asked you to resume "tasking" for estimated fees. Is that "tasking" completed?

I am assuming that you have not, through default and/or non-response, decided to refuse my request. Please respond.
